ABOUT ME

Creating my own business has allowed me to venture out and solve many different problems, from making a Business Methodology to Developing a new Video Editing Pipeline for a TV Network to creating Automation for the Airforce.

I am the type of person who will learn, design, and solve the issue at hand. Learning new tools, understanding pipelines, and constructing new ways to solve problems is what I have had the pleasure to do for the past year. I am well-versed in many tools and can learn quickly and adjust accordingly.

If a company has a great work mentality, I am more motivated and invested in the work. I tend to be geared towards passionate people about their work, and it makes what I do interesting and fun.
